From the Chairperson

Protecting the Rights and safety of children from all walks of life, cutting across age, gender, ethnic, class affiliations or belief systems has been a challenging task in the best of times. The Pandemic lockdown and post-lockdown situation has presented more challenges and different circumstances that call for new kinds of responses, both by the Commission and Society as a whole. As a statutory body set up by the Commission Act of 2005, the Meghalaya State Commission for the protection of Child Rights established in 2014 is mandated to monitor implementation of the POCSO Act 2012, the RTE Act 2009, and the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015. The Commission is also guided and strengthened by policies, laws and other such mechanisms in its mandate to ensure the protection of the Rights of Children in the 'best interest of the Child'.

Children, during the pandemic lockdown and post lockdown, are increasingly vulnerable to all kinds of dangers and issues from mental health to online learning, to social isolation and especially to sexual predators, including online grooming. Online schooling has necessitated the use of mobile phones by even the very young. The danger of accessing inappropriate content through the internet and the negative impact of social media has been compounded by the fact that parents and guardians are not all conversant and proficient in the use of this medium. Hence they cannot wisely guide, monitor or advise their wards to be safe in virtual reality. There have been cases that come to the Commission where children have been referred for counseling because of their addiction to social media, which have affected their physical, social, mental health and their learning processes.

Regarding POCSO, there have been more reporting of POCSO cases especially from areas where there is greater awareness through programmes in the schools and communities.

In 2020, because of the pandemic, the Commission launched its YouTube Channel to reach out virtually to more children, families and districts with specific topics such as personal Safety Education (safe and unsafe touch etc), mental health issues and Child Rights issues.

One of the essential needs to understand Child Rights and their violation, is to have consistent and reliable data. The Commission receives Reports (especially on POCSO) from the DCPU (District Child Protection Units), the Police and the POCSO judges. The Commission has also requested all child rights organizations as well as One Stop Centres to provide regular data on Child Abuse cases (CSA). The work of digitizing all the data since the start of the Commission i.e. 2014 is almost complete. To expedite the process, we are in the process of creating a portal (through NIC) to upload such data from the key sources. It is hoped that this data (to be published) will be accessed by all stakeholders, including policy makers.

In order to build up a strong research database and generate more data relating to various child rights issues, the Commission is collaborating with several institutes and agencies to achieve this goal. We hope that the data generated from such ventures will provide greater clarity on Child Rights violation in the State.

Knowledge sharing and awareness programs especially on the Rights of children, on POCSO, substance abuse, personal safety among other topics are a significant activity of the Commission. There is an urgent need to intensify such programs in the schools but there are financial constraints to consider. Many of the programs have been in collaboration with child rights organizations, agencies and institutions. We acknowledge their key role in our endeavor. Cases come to the Commission relating to children whose parents have separated or relating to physical abuse in schools and such kind. It was difficult to conduct such Hearings physically during the pandemic so some Hearings had to be conducted and recorded online. However Hearings are now regularly conducted face to face.

The Commission is only one of the entities engaged proactively in strengthening and addressing the vulnerable gaps in the protective system in the State.

I take this opportunity to acknowledge the role and assistance of all stakeholders. First of all, I'm grateful to the Government of Meghalaya for its unwavering support and assistance to the work of the Commission. Special acknowledgement and appreciation to Social Welfare Department, Government of Meghalaya without which the Commission would not be able to fulfil its duties. Special commendation goes to all the District Child Protection Officers and the DCPU for their dedication and prompt response in any situation they are called for and their assistance and support to the Commission in its functions and activities.

It is my privilege to acknowledge and thank the Meghalaya Police Department for their dedicated work, the Education Department, the Health Department, the Commission for Persons with Disabilities, the Labour Department, Department of Information and Public Relations and other departments for their assistance and co-operation for every help at various times, on issues faced by the Commission.

We are indebted to all the Rangbah Shnongs, Community leaders, Civil Societies, NGO's and Youth groups who have extended their help and reached out to the Commission and collaborated with us in creating awareness on child right issues. The Commission owes a great deal to the Press and Media for their timely information and help on issues that concern children.

My gratitude to Member Secretary Shri L. Lyngdoh for always being there for the Commission, for his support and advice and for his encouragement and assistance.

I greatly appreciate the Members of the Commission whom we often meet online when we cannot meet physically because of distance, for their support and advice. The Staff have been excellent in their dedication and service in the function of the Commission and I greatly appreciate their commitment and hard work.

This Report is also placed on behalf of all children, every child whose rights have been violated and deprived of a good life and safe childhood. It is our responsibility to respond and fill in the gaps in our endeavour to protect children and enable them to live a whole and healthy life.

MSCPCR condemns rape on minor

SHILLONG, AUG 26: The Meghalaya State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (MSCPCR) has condemned the recent gang rape of four minors in the state.

In a statement issued recently, the MSCPCR chairperson LM Syiem said the rape of four minors that happened on August 8 is a magnified and glaring example of violence committed against minors, especially during this dark period of the pandemic.

"The MSCPCR strongly condemns this horrific crime and all such acts of violence against minors (both male and female)," she said.

According to her, children during these difficult times are especially vulnerable due to their technological access to unsafe sites, lockdown depression, anxiety and socio-psychological dysfunctions.

"Let us, all stakeholders, parents, guardians, older siblings, teachers, be vigilant in protecting our children in whatever way we can. My prayers go to the children who have been scarred by such trauma, as also with all parents from the state who are facing the consequences of such terrible acts," Syiem said.

At 11.10, Ms Iamon M. Syiem, Chairperson, SCPCR, Meghalaya welcomed the dignitaries and the gathering. She briefly highlighted the history/origin and importance of Child rights emphasizing on the right to Education, development and enjoyment of life. Miss Syiem spoke on the need to manage stress while we try to overcome life's problems and also to take these tests as a step to higher levels that help mould us. This is especially important for students who deal with stress of exams and expectations. She also encouraged the young students to accept the reality of Exams which is similar to the tests of life which confronts everybody, young or old. She also addressed teachers to come up with unique strategies to lessen the stress of exams for the students. She exhorted the students to work towards their dreams, realize their potential and soar to higher levels of achievements.

The welcome speech was followed by the distribution of the 'Exam Warrior' book authored by the Hon'ble Prime Minister of India Shri Narendra Modi- which was facilitated by Shri. Sanjay Kumar Mishra from The Asia Foundation, to selected students from the CCI's and the students of various schools. These books were also given out to all participants at the program.

At 11.30, Guest of Honour, Shri Kyrmen Shylla, Hon'ble Minister, Social Welfare Department, Government of Meghalaya addressed the gathering. He highlighted the need to disseminate information on stress management to students especially when it comes to exam related stress - to use the different information and communication materials available at NCPDR website and the Pariksha Parv platforms.

At 11.40, the Chief Guest, Shri Metbah Lyngdoh, Hon'ble Speaker, Meghalaya Legislative Assembly presented his speech. In his speech Shri. Lyngdoh expressed his appreciation for holding such programs, adding that whichever programs children attends, it indicates the presence of life and hope. He expressed his thanks to the Hon'ble Prime Minister of India Shri. Narendra Modi for initiating such an important programme.

While citing relevant examples, he mentioned the student teacher ratio. He also asked for such programmes to reach out to rural areas as the challenges are different for the rural students, as also the quality of education is different. Although there are students who may match up with urban children but the wider majority find difficulties to cope especially during and after the pandemic. Village wise school campaigns and community mobilizations can help. The exam packages should be made more attractive and enjoyable. To the students he exhorted to maintain a healthy lifestyle in order to be physically and psychologically prepared for exam related stress management.

At 11.55, Smt. Rupali Banerjee Singh, Member Secretary, NCPDR, graciously rounded the Inaugural section with a vote of thanks to the Hon'ble Guests and the participants.

At 12.00, the Chief Guest and Guest of Honour took leave of the program and were accompanied by NCPDR and SCPCR members for refreshment during which some more issues were raised with the Ministers with a favourable response.

The Technical Sessions at 12.00 was flagged off with a presentation on 'Pariksha Parv' by Shri Paresh Shah, NCPDR team. He spoke on the core issues of sensitization on stress due to exams, promote counseling and positive perception, to change the outlook of children towards exam and to bring positive impact through social media platforms, to provide expert advice on exam related stress, to compile a compendium of local level counselors, psychologist and provide this list to all students concerned. The first Session from 12.30 was conducted by Dr. Sujata Satapathy, Department of Psychiatry, All India Institute of Medical Science (AIIMS), New Delhi, on the topic "Clinical aspects of Stress and Anxiety and ways to deal with Exams and Exams Results related to Stress and Anxiety".

Dr Satapathy, with the help of slides discussed how students approach preparation of exams and also gave tips on how to handle examination stress and how to study. She explained why examination stress is a negative experience and how the stress manifests itself into excess stress that destroys a student both physically and psychologically.

She also spoke on the concept of delinking in order to reduce stress that surrounds marks, academic goals and examinations. Parental involvement and monitoring can also help a lot when it comes to stress management

The First Technical Session ended with a Lunch break.

The Second Technical Session was presented by Dr. Jyotsna Bharadwaj, Faculty for Diploma in Guidance and Counseling Course, Department of Educational Psychology and Foundations of Education, NCERT, New Delhi.

Dr. Bharadwaj elicited a positive and lively response with her empathetic and child friendly form of delivery. She explained how students should work on their coping mechanism to better their mental health. She also urged the students to understand that they will do better only when they feel better. She invited them to focus positively on the whole person, improve emotional, intelligent and social quotients - this will improve their belief on self and their life skills.

Dr Bharadwaj exhorted the students to focus on things that can be controlled and to let go of things that cannot be controlled. She expressed this by quoting " If you cannot stop the storm, you should learn to dance in the rain". The students were taught to focus on the mission of happiness that allows them to understand their thought process and thus improve how they handle stress on a daily basis.

The active response of the students and teachers alike continued in the interactive open house discussion that followed well over the time allotted. The questions that were raised from both the male and female students especially were thought provoking and honest, addressing issues that were faced by students especially post pandemic. The Two Resource persons did an excellent job of judiciously empathizing as well as challenging and giving guidance, treating the questions in all seriousness and giving them due merit.

Some of the questions raised were:

1. How do we deal with people who stigmatize students who score low marks?
2. Can I accept my exams as a best friend?
3. If we can't cope with our problems, what other viable solutions exists?
4. What if we don't have a good childhood experience? How can we make a better foundation later?
5. There are some judgments that we as students cannot ignore, how can we take it positively as a motivation?
6. We say India is a democratic country but still there are many cases where girls aren't given chances of equality in society. How do we address this?
7. I can't seem to concentrate in class when teachers give lectures. Is there a problem with me?
8. If anyone of you living in the same dream, are you living on it?

Just before the break for high tea, there was another colorful display of traditional attire and musical sound of flute and drums and dance of the same troupe who had entertained earlier.

The excited chatter of students, feedback and conversations of the invitees and guests in the two dining halls reflected the success of the Pariksha Parv program.

The Report of this program would not be complete if we do not acknowledge the excellent work of the NCC Synod College and the interns from MLCU, and the organizers NCPCR and MSCPCR.

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child

DID YOU KNOW?
This Convention applies to almost every single country in the world!

1 Until you are eighteen, you are considered a child and have all the rights in this Convention.

2 You should not be discriminated against for any reason, including your race, colour, sex, language, religion, opinion, origin, social or economic status, disability, birth, or any other quality of your parents or guardians.

12 When adults are making decisions that affect you, you have the right to say freely what you think should happen and to have your opinion taken into account.

3 All actions and decisions that affect you should be based on what is best for you or any child.

13 You have the right to look for, get and share information in all forms (i.e. through writing, art, television, radio and internet), as long as the information is not damaging to you or to others.

4 The Government should make these rights available to you and all children.

14 You have the right to think and believe what you want and to practice your religion, as long as you do not stop other people from enjoying their rights. Your parents should guide you on these matters.

5 Your family has the main responsibility for guiding you so that, as you grow, you learn to use your rights properly. Governments should respect this right.

15 You have the right to meet and to join groups and organisations with other children, as long as this does not stop other people from enjoying their rights.

6 You have the right to live and grow well. Governments should ensure that you survive and develop healthily.

16 You have the right to protection from interference with privacy, family, home, mail, and from attacks on your character or reputation.

7 You have the right to have your birth legally registered, to have a name and nationality and to know and to be cared for by your parents.

17 You have the right to reliable information from a variety of sources, including books, newspapers and magazines, television, radio and internet. Information should be beneficial and understandable to you.

8 Governments should respect your right to a name, a nationality and family ties.

18 Both your parents share responsibility for bringing you up and should always consider what is best for you. Governments should provide services to help parents, especially if both parents work.

9 You should not be separated from your parents unless it is for your own good (for example, if a parent mistreats or neglects you). If your parents have separated, you have the right to stay in contact with both of them unless this might hurt you.

19 Governments should ensure that you are properly cared for and protect you from violence, abuse and neglect by your parents or anyone else who looks after you.

10 If your parents live in different countries, you should be allowed to move between those countries so that you can stay in contact with your parents or get back together as a family.

20 If parents and family cannot care for you properly, then you must be looked after by people who respect your religion, traditions and language.

11 Governments must take steps to stop you being taken out of your country illegally.

21 If you are adopted, the first concern must be what is best for you, whether you are adopted in your birth country or if you are taken to live in another country.

LEARN ABOUT YOUR RIGHTS!

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child

22 If you have come to a new country because your home country was unsafe, you have the right to protection and support. You have the same rights as children born in that country.

33 The Government should provide ways of protecting you from using, producing or distributing dangerous drugs.

23 If you have any kind of disability, you should have special care, support and education so that you can lead a full and independent life and participate in the community to the best of your ability.

34 You should be protected from sexual exploitation and abuse, including prostitution and involvement in pornography.

24 You have the right to good quality healthcare (i.e. medicine, hospitals, health professionals). You have the right to clean water, nutritious food, a clean environment and health education so that you can stay healthy. Rich countries should help poorer countries achieve this.

35 The Government should take steps to make sure that you are not kidnapped, sold or taken to other countries to be exploited.

25 If you are looked after by local authorities or institutions rather than by your parents, you should have your situation reviewed regularly to make sure you have good care and treatment.

36 You should be protected from any activities that could harm your development and wellbeing.

26 The society in which you live should provide you with benefits of social security that help you develop and live in good conditions (i.e. education, culture, nutrition, health, social welfare). The Government should provide extra money for the children of families in need.

37 If you break the law, you should not be treated cruelly. You should not be put in prison with adults and should be able to stay in contact with your family. The death penalty and life sentences in prison are not allowed for children.

27 You should live in good conditions that help you develop physically, mentally, spiritually, morally and socially. The Government should help families who cannot afford to provide this.

DID YOU KNOW?
Most governments have agreed in an Optional Protocol to the CRC that children under 18 should not be allowed to join the army.

28 You have the right to education. Primary education should be free and required. Secondary education should be accessible to every child. Higher education should be available to everyone on the basis of capacity. School discipline should respect your rights and dignity.

38 If you are under 15, governments should not allow you to join the army or take any direct part in war. Children in war zones should receive special protection.

29 Education should develop your personality, talents, mental and physical abilities. It should prepare you for active participation in a free society, and encourage you to respect your own culture and other people's culture.

39 You should receive special care if you were neglected or abused, were a victim of exploitation or war, or were put in prison.

30 You have a right to learn and use the traditions, religion and language of your family, whether or not these are shared by most people in your country.

40 If you are accused of breaking the law, you must be treated in a way that respects your dignity. You should receive legal help and only be given a prison sentence for most serious crimes.

31 You have the right to rest, have leisure, play and participate in cultural and artistic activities.

41 If the laws in your country are better for children than the articles of the Convention, then those laws should be followed.

32 The Government should protect you from work that is dangerous to your health or development, that interferes with your education or that might lead people to take advantage of you.

42 The Government should make the Convention known to all parents, institutions and children.
